

I can't currently get Freeview. Does this mean that I will lose my TV after switchover?

Contributed by Administrator
Wednesday, 20 February 2008

No. One of the reasons that switchover is happening is so that more people can get Freeview (TV through their aerial). It's only by switching off the old analogue signal that power for the digital signal can be increased. All households currently capable of receiving analogue television are expected to be able to receive digital terrestrial television provided their aerial is in reasonable condition and correctly installed.